Dear Friends,

As Seattle's free modern and contemporary art museum, the Frye is proud to provide our city with opportunities to learn, connect, and be inspired through shared experiences that bring people together through art. While 2025 was a difficult year for arts organizations across the United States, with challenges to artistic expression and cuts to vital cultural funding, the Frye's community remained steadfast. Throughout the year artists, visitors, members, supporters, and partners demonstrated a collective belief in the essential role art plays in helping us understand ourselves, one another, and the world around us.

The Frye's exhibitions program brought together a dynamic array of artistic mediums and creative viewpoints. We celebrated the extraordinary talent of the Pacific Northwest through exhibitions by Dawn Cerny, Beau Dick, Priscilla Dobler Dzul, Tarrah Krajnak, and Camille Trautman. We presented Hugh Hayden's first West Coast solo exhibition, featuring meticulously crafted wooden sculptures and multimedia works that challenged viewers to reconsider familiar narratives and assumptions. We explored underexamined aspects of the practices of two influential contemporary artists, Alex Katz and Jamie Wyeth, revealing new perspectives on Katz's collaborations with choreographers and avant-garde theater groups and the uncanny dimensions of the American landscape depicted in Wyeth's work.

Across the museum, we sought new ways to connect audiences with the ideas and experiences embedded within these exhibitions. Chef Grayson Corrales and the MariPili team partnered with artists to create special menu offerings—including Hugh Hayden's Trifle and Camille Trautman's LCD Dinner—that invited visitors to engage with art through another of life's great pleasures: food! These creative collaborations transformed a visit to the museum into a multisensory experience that connected art, culture, and community.

Interdisciplinary partnerships also offered exciting opportunities for deeper engagement. Esteemed Seattle choreographer Mark Haim led a workshop inspired by Alex Katz: Theater and Dance, exploring how movement, gesture, and observation shape artistic practice. Exhibiting artist Priscilla Dobler Dzul, alongside community organizer Daniela Mussali and master weaver Doña Brigida Lopez, shared the intergenerational knowledge, cultural traditions, and social relationships that are central to Dobler Dzul's work. These programs reflected a core belief of the Frye: that art becomes most meaningful when it builds connection and creates a platform for collective learning.

As we prepare to celebrate the Frye's seventy-fifth anniversary in 2027, we were especially proud to publish Floor to Ceiling, the museum's first collection book in nearly four decades. Featuring more than one hundred works from Charles and Emma Frye's original collection, the publication offers a fresh perspective on the museum's holdings while illuminating the enduring vision that continues to guide us today. The Fries' deeply personal approach to collecting and displaying art is a reminder that museums are not static repositories of objects, but living places shaped by curiosity, generosity, and a desire to share meaningful experiences with others.

All of these exhibitions, programs, and initiatives came to life through the generosity of our members, donors, institutional partners, and advocates. Your support enables us to present ambitious exhibitions, steward our collection, and offer engaging opportunities for people of all ages and backgrounds to encounter art free of charge.

My deepest thanks to our staff, board, volunteers, teaching artists, and collaborators whose expertise, creativity, and dedication make the Frye what it is. And to everyone who visited this year—whether for an exhibition, a program, a conversation, or simply a moment of reflection—thank you for being part of our community. As we look ahead to our seventy-fifth year and beyond, we remain inspired by the artists and audiences who continue to shape the Frye's future.

With gratitude,

Jamilee Lacy

The Frye Art Museum collection now includes nearly 1,600 works of art thanks to the generosity of our donors. In 2025, the museum acquired twenty-three artworks by nine artists for the collection. Reflecting the success of our exhibition program, three of those acquisitions were works by Hayv Kahraman and Priscilla Dobler Dzul that were on view in their solo exhibitions. Alongside the works by Dobler Dzul, a box set of twelve prints by Clyde Petersen and a print by Jeffry Mitchell completed the year's acquisitions of local and regional Northwest artists. Additional acquisitions deepened the museum's holdings of significant contemporary work including by artists Vik Muniz, Sterling Ruby, and Diane Simpson.
